the 1980s, the number of people in the population aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (19.5%) and the number aged 75 and over by 0.8 million (20.5%).

There is a growing concern that the ageing population will place a heavy burden on the health services, particularly in the area of long-term care. This paper examines the extent to which the ageing population is likely to place a burden on the health services in the future.

1. Introduction

The population of the United Kingdom is ageing. The number of people aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (19.5%) since 1971 and the number aged 75 and over by 0.8 million (20.5%).
